PROFESSIONALS FORM ALLIANCE TO HELP GUIDE PEOPLE THROUGH THE DIVORCE PROCESS

TRAVERSE CITY, MI, MARCH 1, 2007 – Local team of Attorneys, Mediators, Financial Planners and Counselors have created and launched DivorceConnections.com. The website has been developed to help change the way people go through the divorce process by providing guidance and solutions from a team of experts.

The team approach to working through a divorce is often faster, less-stressful, cheaper and results in longer lasting agreements. Clients spend time developing solutions that are more comprehensive and more creative instead of preparing to fight in the courtroom.

DivorceConnections.com is a resource of information for couples going through or contemplating the divorce process. The website provides information about the various legal, financial and emotional areas of life that need to be addressed when going through the divorce process.

“Instead of preparing for a battle in the courtroom, clients spend their time and energy with multiple experts developing plans on how to make this life transition the best possible for everyone involved, including the kids” says Jim Casler, Executive Director of DivorceConnections.com. Casler continues, “With so much energy, heartache, pain and money being spent and exhausted in the traditional, more litigious divorce route, we knew there was a better way to help people with this life transition. We don’t blame attorneys...they’re just doing their job. It’s the system! We feel we have simply found a better approach for people to consider.”

To become affiliated with Divorce Connections, professionals must sign a pledge to maintain and uphold established ethical guidelines.
